LEGION AND AUXILIARY ENJOY DINNER-DANCE

Members of the American Legion and Legion Auxiliary and their families enjoyed a dinner and dance given by the post at the Legion Clubhouse. A number of novelties were introduced. Every veteran introduced himself giving his name, rank in service and outfit with which he served. Members of the Auxiliary related a number of secrets regarding their husbands' service. The dinner was served by Legionnaires who had been kitchen police in the army or navy. Ray Leslie was the cook. He did well. Almost everyone asked for seconds. Don Baxter was steward. The kitchen police made their entry while the dinner was in progress and apologized for living.

Suits Trend to Handsome Novelty Tweeds This Fall

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

Seeking enlightenment as to fall suit trends? Well, here is a "last word" model which speaks for itself in its mannish tweed fabric, its short skirt with its adroit plait at one side and its swagger-out coat. It is Marlon Nixon, she who holds forth in conversation to the delight of vast audiences who has stepped into the autumn picture clad as you see.

With this eminently correct and "easy-to-look-at" suit Miss Nixon wears a ravishing red suede vest. It tones the whole outfit. A bit of the red silk escapes from the vest to do duty as a boutonniere and on the pocket and collar as a "note of color." A sports felt hat of tan, with matching shoes and bag, give a perfect impulse to this ensemble.

The sturdy rough-tweed suits now so fashionable are directly in contrast to the elaboration movement of seasonal costume which marks this season. One that really distinguishes the new suit distinctiveness. As to length of skirt, this depends whether one is considering the subject from the American, or Paris standpoint. French couturiers are inclined to somewhat longer lengths, but women here, especially of the flapper age, are proving quite defiant, many of them insisting on containing a display of knees. Of course Paris usually wins in the finals, but just now brevity is the rule, especially for the youthful style enthusiasts in America.

Another item of interest the smartest suits have not an inch of fur in sight as actual trimming, this feature of the Vogue for the separate fur piece. Every one "who can afford it" is going to own a large or platinum fox scarf this fall.

Seems as if browns are to have their inning this season. Lovely chestnut shades, cocoa, deep leaf tones and the like, which of course establishes the color trend for any season.

More formal type suits appear in black and also in leaf-colored broadcloths, but it is the sports suit which is the "mitty" thing to wear.

TOWNE TALK

"Just for Fun"

By RAS BERRY

Up to the Legion dinner everybody got up and told his name and what outfit he served in and one bozo says he served in the Navy and he said his ship was the alert and then his wife introduced herself and the chairman says was your husband off the Alert when you married him and she says he sure was—a long way off.

Well U. S. C. win by a eyelash Saturday. Hank Ulbright he says all them Oregon boys had was not men but a lot of trees and when they fell down they crushed everything in their way.

Spud Murphy he picked Oregon to win.

Next Sat. they will be quite a party of local folks up to the Stanford vs. U. S. C. game at Palo Alto and some of them is apt to have to walk home.

This is getting to be almost a football and golluf colyum but we can't help telling something about what took place at Palos Verdes links last Sun. a. m. On Sunday a. m. up there the Breakfast club meets rides nags around the hills, eats breakfast and listens to speeches and entertainments. Last Sun. they had two trained apes up there to entertain the folks and Charlie Inman he challenged one of the apes to play 18 holes. Charlie says he would spot the ape ten strokes and beat him.

I told Charlie I would let the ape spot him 10 strokes and would bet on the ape providing Charlie didn't take his shovel and hoe along in his golluf bag. Charlie says he wouldn't make no bet.

Them apes come running down over the golluf links and Slip Kelsey seen them and he passes his hands over his eyes and says Gee Whiz I ain't never again gain out Saturday night.

Slip he looks at the apes again and says and they say that I descended from one of them things.

I says I never believed in evolution until I seen that ape standing next to you Slip. Nobody was hurt.

W. Post tells Jim Fiske the professional golluf teacher up there that if they is gonna allow apes on the links any more he is gonna quit playing golluf and take his children to the zoo instead.

Well, says Jim, you shouldn't ought to kick on a couple of apes, when you play golluf with Kingsley and Kelsey every Sunday.

And I says "is that so?" So he didn't say no more only a few minutes later I seen Slip looking at his self in a mirror.

Bob Kratz has got his self a boat which is twenty six ft. long with a forty foot mast and he don't say so but I got a hunch that the reason the mast is so high is so he can foot for them big draw-bridges to open up when he chugs along. I went out for a ride with him the other day. His boat used up 30 cents worth of gasoline and the cost of raising and lowering three drawbridges for him to get through was $18.52.

If they is anyone who is suffering from a inferiority complex and thinks himself unimportant he had better buy a little boat with a high mast and go cruising around San Pedro harbor.

Warren Johnston he got a bill from us for some work we done for him and he seen me on the st. and he handed me the envelope and he says this guy has left town and so I took the envelope and wrote on it to have it forwarded to the First National Bank corner. And Warren seen he couldn't get out of it so he paid the bill right then and there.

This here town is going forward. Or else some folks is over-optimistic. We just printed 1,000 birth record blanks for the hospital.

I don't know whether that is a threat or a suggestion. Take your choice.

If George Peekham's son Bob don't quit his deals they won't be room in Gee's back yard even for a Ford car—new or old. From our house alone in the past 2 wks Bob has took one guinea pig and one rabbit from our house and Bob says he is gonna get a nother guinea pig and another rabbit, and have some babies so he can sell them and make some money. I don't know who put them ideas in his head. I am sure I didn't because we was awful sorry to get rid of them pets and are awful happy that Little Bob has took to helping out his papa between now and the time them new Fords comes out.
